Golden Sunshine

A vibrant scene of a Venetian canal. The water is a deep blue-green, reflecting the clear sky and the colorful facades of the buildings. On the left, a large, ornate building with a terracotta facade features two levels of arched windows with white columns and decorative balconies. To its right, a taller, more rectangular building with a yellowish-orange facade has several windows and a small balcony. Further right, another building with a reddish-orange facade has a row of arched windows. In the foreground, several gondolas are moored along the canal, their dark hulls and blue covers visible. The sky is a clear, bright blue.
